CHASING TRAILS THIS WEEK'S TRAIL TALLY

What a year it's been! Every week has brought another inspiring performance, on UK trails, in international races, or simply through stories of grit, resilience, and running happiness. After all, at Harrier, we're all about running free. So we've picked five stories that have made us want to lace up our trainers and hit the trails... but there are lots more out there. Everyone who's run this year, however far, however hard, congratulations and let's make 2026 an even better one together!

Catch you out on the trails,

NAOMI LANG SHINES ON WORLD STAGE

2025 was a fantastic breakout year for Naomi, who's gone from strength to strength on the global circuit. One performance that stands above the rest is her amazing run at the World Mountain and Trail Running Championships, where she claimed a bronze medal in the 45km race.

KIM COLLISON

CONQUERS THE SPINE

If ever there was an embodiment of the saying "if at first you don't succeed, try again," it's Kim's story with the Winter Spine Race. After three unsuccessful attempts, he conquered the Pennine Way this winter, in the third fastest time ever.

PEMBROKESHIRE

COAST PATH FKT FOR SANNA DUTHIE

After an initial unsuccessful attempt to run the Pembrokeshire Coast Path in record time (beating her own best), Harrier PRO Athlete Sanna returned to her home trails and secured the FKT. A performance that means so much to her on a personal level.

JOSH WADE PODIUMS AT UTMB

When it comes to international ultra racing, it doesn't get much bigger than the Ultra-Trail du Mont Blanc.

Among the noise and hype, Josh Wade put on a masterclass in pacing and race management to secure third place on a historic day for British runners, as Tom Evans won the race.

LUCY GOSSAGE'S "HOLIDAY" ON THE SOUTH WEST COAST PATH

Calling it a "boating holiday with some shuffling in between," Lucy Gossage tackled the 630 miles of the South West Coast Path in a self-supported FKT attempt... and set a new record. Her meticulously planned run was amazing and inspiring to follow.
